NOVEMBER 2016

I THINK SPENDING A YEAR WITH ME WOULD DRIVE THE PERSON I ADMIRE INSANE...
IT'S A VERY LONG TIME.
AND I'M WORRIED I WOULD RUIN IT.

Would you choose $1,000,000
or a year with the human you admire the most?

WITH $1,000,000
I WOULD BE ABLE TO BEGIN TO PLUG
GAPS IN PROCESSES THAT ARE CAUSING
SYSTEMIC CHANGE,
RATHER THAN WISH
SOMEONE ELSE WAS.

I FIND PEACE IN

SOLITUDE.

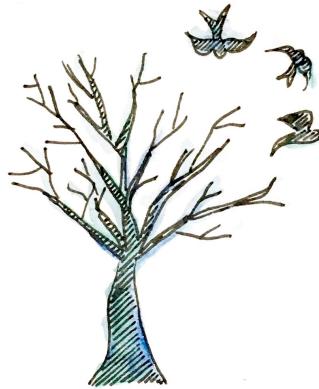

I am very lucid
when I'm lying
by myself in my bed in the middle of the night.

Also ART is SOOTHING
and I love walking around MUSEUMS
when there aren't many people.

IN THE FUTURE I LOOK FORWARD TO UNDERSTANDING

If you knew you were going to die suddenly in 365 days,
is there anything about your current life that you would change?

YES. I'D STOP TRYING TO NEST,
AND EXPLORE.
CLICK START ON THE WAYS I CAN HELP LEAVE SOMETHING BIGGER + BETTER THAN ME BEHIND.

this illustration is particularly important: it was not made by me.

this weekend, I encouraged my best friend to draw - for the first time since he was a child.

after a 5 minute intro to drawing Virginia's little humans, he drew a 'little' version of himself which, after adding some context, became the first guest illustration of the Friends of Virginia project -> it fills my heart to help others understand that this project is based on simple drawings that can be crafted by everyone.

even if you haven't drawn in years, you are capable of creating powerful art in the simplest of ways.

what brings you most happiness to your day to day life?

MAKING OTHERS FEEL THAT THEY HAVE ACHIEVED SOMETHING.

thank you
